You are the God who is working all things together after the counsel of Your will. Thank You for these men and women that are here to serve the citizens of Texas. Remind each one here that they have been elected to represent the people of their district before they ever represent a party or national platform. Protect each Member here and their staff from lies, deceit, and manipulation. Allow only truth to prevail. Give wisdom and discernment to each Senator to choose what is right and good and just.

I pray that You would be active in this Chamber. Close the mouths and limit the influence of those that try to twist what You have declared as evil and try to sell it as good. Give a voice and great influence to those who would promote what is right and just and good according to Your law. I pray that You would continue to bless the State of Texas so that we may be a blessing to others. May Your kingdom come, Your will be done, on Earth as it is in heaven. For Yours is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

The bill was read third time and was passed by the following vote: Yeas 19, Nays 12. (Same as previous roll call)

REASON FOR VOTE

Senator Rodríguez submitted the following reason for vote on CSSB 17:

Senate Bill 17 purports to provide protections for those who choose not to provide services to others because of "sincerely held religious belief." I believe this is a vehicle to justify discrimination, particularly against LGBTQ Texans.

Freedom of religion has been a long established principle in our country. Our federal Constitution protects this and other rights, which may not be denied by the government without due process.

I appreciate that the author’s beliefs compel him to carry this legislation. However, my own beliefs compel me to oppose what amounts to a get-out-of-jail free card to discriminate against religious and other minorities.

As our shared history shows, religious beliefs have been used to justify the inhumane treatment of various peoples including slaves, Catholics, Jews, and LGBTQ folx. Today, across the world, religious minorities – whether they’re Christians, Jews, Muslims, Hindus, or even atheists – are persecuted for having beliefs that are not shared by the majority in their respective country.

In America, we pride ourselves on a learned history of tolerance. This means we do not use the power or authority of the government to discriminate against minority groups, and as a society, we continually strive towards a more perfect union.

Government should ensure that the exercise of religious expression – even when it represents a majority or a plurality – isn’t used as a justification to exclude others from the full participation in American life, which includes the rights guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution.

Further, with respect specifically to S.B. 17, I’m concerned that the bill is overly broad and will lead to regulatory confusion by failing to define criteria with which to evaluate what constitutes a "sincere religiously held belief." This has been developed by the Equal Employment Opportunity Office but, to my knowledge, the state lacks.
I’m also concerned that it will undermine best practices of health care professionals. As articulated by Will Francis with the Texas Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers: "Religious exemptions are in direct opposition to the Code of Ethics for all mental health practitioners in Texas. It is the duty of all practitioners to place the client’s autonomous self above any personal beliefs they may hold. Texas cannot have a healthy network of mental health professionals if laws enable providers to deny services based on their own values."

For all of these reasons, I voted against SB 17, and will continue to vote against bills that sanction discrimination against vulnerable minorities in Texas.

RODRÍGUEZ

REMARKS ORDERED PRINTED

On motion of Senator Hall and by unanimous consent, the closing remarks by Senators Perry and Lucio regarding CSSB 17 were ordered reduced to writing and printed in the Senate Journal.

On motion of Senator West and by unanimous consent, all remarks on third reading regarding CSSB 17 were ordered reduced to writing and printed in the Senate Journal as follows:

Senator Menéndez: Thank you, Mr. President, and Members. I rise to speak against committee substitute for Senate Bill 17. Over the years we’ve made progress on advancing the rights of the LGBTQ citizens in this nation, but however, religious exemptions could directly target this group of people. In Alabama, religious exemption laws have been used as a basis for medical professionals to decline work to these clients. In Kansas, a state-licensed welfare agency was allowed to refuse to place and provide services to LGBTQ people if it conflicts with their religious beliefs. In Michigan, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, and South Carolina, religious exemptions have made it possible to be denied services to the LGBTQ community. The problem is, that while an individual may be, quote, protected for refusing to service a same-sex couple or a transgendered woman, no one is protecting the people who are impacted directly by this bill. The Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation licenses and regulates over 150 types of jobs. One of the areas is tow trucks and tow truck operators. What if it’s 1:00 in the morning and you have a couple, same-sex. What if the tow truck driver sees them and says that his religious beliefs or her religious beliefs prevent them from towing their car? This is just one example of discrimination that I think could happen. And you know, the problem is that even if, even if it was found that it was wrong, if we pass this bill that tow truck operator could feel emboldened to refuse them service and the damage is done. This is just one example, but considering that they license 150 other jobs, the potential for discrimination is much greater. Another program they license is dyslexia therapy. Let’s say a teenager gets pregnant in high school. She may not graduate, but eventually goes back, has dyslexia, needs therapy to help her read. Under this bill, that therapist would be protected if his or her sincerely held religious beliefs prevent them from helping her because she had a child out of wedlock. Yesterday, we heard that this bill is an affirmative defense for people who are practicing their sincerely held religious beliefs. It was mentioned that the bill does not target any group of people, but, Members, as we’ve seen it practiced in other states, it clearly does. And this is not just anecdotal information, Members. Here in Texas, we had Fatma Marouf, 41, she’s a law professor at Texas A&M who’s married to Bryn Esplin, who’s 33, who is a bioethics professor at the university’s medical school. They decided to settle in Fort Worth. They heard about the refugee crisis and they decided they wanted to do something. They applied, they said, there are hundreds and hundreds of children who come in as refugees who’ve gone through enormous ordeals and need places to stay, but they were turned away. And why were they turned away, even though it seemed like it was a great fit? It was said here because they did not, quote, mirror the Holy Family. Members, this is what we’re talking about. This is what I’m talking about. This is what I feel. I understand that, and I believe my colleague when he says that this is not in his heart. I would never think in a million years that he personally would discriminate against anybody. The problem is that when you create a shield, a defense, that shield can be used as a weapon, and that’s why I rise to speak against the committee substitute for Senate Bill 17. Thank you, Mr. President. Thank you, Members.

President: Thank you, Senator. Senator Rodríguez, did you want to speak?

Senator Rodríguez: Yes, Mr. President, thank you. I, too, rise to speak against this bill. We heard a lot of, had a lot of discussion yesterday about the potential impact of this bill. And like Senator Menéndez, I feel that this bill really, rather than protecting discrimination against agency action, that it does the opposite, that it allows people with occupational licenses of all stripes and professions to discriminate. And I want us to think about the role that religion has played throughout our history. We all know that the First Amendment protects our exercise of religion. And, in fact, when this country was founded, you all recall, since we had the teachers here this morning, in our early educational experience, that the Puritans came over to America because they were being persecuted in England. And it’s recorded in history that the Puritans once here, turned right around and discriminated against Catholics, for example, and other religions, based on their religious beliefs. In fact, that’s what I understand why the State of Maryland was established as a haven for Catholics escaping the Puritans. We know that then we experienced slavery in this country and that religion and sincerely held religious beliefs were used as a reason to maintain slavery in this country. We fought a civil war over that. In more modern times, we recall that people who had sincerely held religious beliefs passed laws and maintained laws that prohibited interracial couples from marrying. Bring that bar closer to our time, and we have the same-sex marriage issue before the Supreme Court. It’s now the law of the land that people of same sex can marry and have the benefits of all that that entails like anybody else, but we see in the guise of sincerely held religious beliefs people being denied opportunities, either to get a marriage license or to get other government benefits. So, Members, we ought to be cautious about these bills, and we have a whole slew of bills coming over from the House, assuming they get passed through the House, that are going to allow people to, landlords to deny renting to same-sex couples or Muslims or Catholics or whatever. We have bills that, like this one, that involve professionals, the medical profession. I mentioned lawyers yesterday and other professionals. There’s bills that would, based on sincerely held religious beliefs, allow counselors, therapists, and others to, again, deny services to people. So, I want us to recall this history in this country of how religion has played a role in basically oppressing certain types of people. And while I do respect and support every single one of us exercising our religious beliefs and living by those tenets that we want to live by. It is very difficult for me knowing this history to sit here and accept that we will pass legislation that promotes that kind of treatment of people in this country. I don’t think that is what we meant in the First Amendment by exercising religion, having the free exercise of religion under the First Amendment. So, I want to tell you, Senator Perry, that while I really respect you, I know you do have strong, strong religious tenets and you abide by your religious convictions, but your bill would allow people to discriminate. Plain and simple. Even if it’s a defense, as you pointed out, that is being used, that defense is intended to excuse that person from discriminating against somebody based on their sincerely held religious beliefs. And so, as I said yesterday, I think this bill represents a slippery slope, Members, a slippery slope to where we may, based on all this legislation that I see here and in other states across the country, take us back to those days when people use religion to deny other people the same opportunities that we all want to have. So, for those reasons, Mr. President and Members, I’m opposed to this bill, and I think it’s a mistake to pass this bill. Thank you.

President: Thank you. Senator West.

Senator West: Thank you very much. Members, I must stand up and speak against this bill even though I’m pretty certain it’s going to pass, but I want to make certain that I’m on record as it relates to this bill. This bill is focused, frankly, on allowing people, and I’m not saying anything about my colleague Senator Perry, to allow persons to, frankly, discriminate against the LGBTQ community. That’s what this is about. And each and every one of you have persons that fit that description in your senatorial district, and now you will be telling them by your vote today exactly what you think about their lifestyles, about them as a person, and allow persons to say that because of their religious beliefs that they can discriminate if they so choose against someone because of their sexual orientation. You will be on record for that, and if you think it’s right, then go ahead and do it but also understand that those persons also have a right to vote, have a right to get services, because that’s what we were talking about yesterday, render unto Ceasar that which is Ceasar’s. And the fact is that, you know, I go to church. I’m not a religious scholar, but I want to remind you that how, quote, unquote, religious beliefs have been used. Think about Jeff Sessions. Most notorious and most recently, scripture was used by the former Attorney General of this country to defend a controversial policy that separated families. That’s the most recent use of religion. Think about how it’s been used in the past as articulated by my colleague Senator Rodriguez. Think about back in 1901, Georgia’s Governor Candler defended unequal public schooling for African Americans on the grounds that God made them Negroes and we cannot by education make them white folks, based on religious grounds. I can go on and on, Members, about how this, how religious beliefs have been perverted by some people in this country, and I think this is a perversion right now. This is going be a seminal moment in the history of this state by saying that people can discriminate against someone because of their, because of their sexual orientation. I want you to remember, some of you have very red districts, that’s fine, and in some of the best of our families we have persons that fit the description. But a question that I'd ask you to answer in voting for this bill, is whether you would want someone in your family to be discriminated against just because of their sexual orientation and use someone's religious belief in order to do that. Our history is replete with examples, Senator Perry, on the perverted use of religious belief in order to do damage to our fellowman, and I know that you're the type of person that would respect the rights and privileges of your fellowman. Thank you, excuse me, and also wo-man.

President: Anyone else wish to speak? If not, we move final. Senator Lucio has asked for just a few seconds before he speaks. Members, while we're waiting for Senator Lucio, I'm going to go to Senator Perry for the motion on final passage, and I'll hold the vote. I'll make the motion and let him speak on his bill. Are you ready now, Senator Lucio? Okay, then we'll go back and do it in the right order. Senator Lucio, you're recognized.

Senator Lucio: Thank you, Mr. President. Members, you've often heard me say that my decision making is based on my faith. But in that decision making, I have always tried my very best to be inclusive of whoever it is that we're trying to help and never in my heart have I tried to impact anyone in a negative way. I want to read, and I wanted to say before I read this quote from Cardinal Daniel DiNardo, Archbishop of Galveston and Houston, that once again, the reason we always state that this is the greatest country in the world because we have freedom of speech, we have freedom of religion. We're able to exercise those freedoms openly, and everyone has a place at the table, in my personal view. Cardinal Daniel DiNardo, Archbishop of Galveston, stated, quote, in recent years, people of faith have experienced pressing restrictions on religious freedom from both the federal government and state governments that receive federal funding. For example, in areas as diverse as adoption, education, health care and other social services, widely held moral and religious beliefs, especially regarding the protection of human life, as well as preserving marriage and family, have been maligned as bigotry or hostility and penalized accordingly. The disagreement on moral and religious issues is not discrimination, instead it is the inevitable and desirable fruit of a free, civil society marked by genuine religious diversity. I think we need to listen carefully to what the Cardinal is trying to communicate with us. I have always felt strongly that we on this floor can obviously express our views, and I have always turned to the greatest history book ever written by mankind and especially those that walk along, those that call themselves Christians, Jesus Christ and the lessons that He left us. I feel that this bill is a bill that we need to address at this particular time in the history of our country because if we don't, then we're going to continue to deteriorate as a nation, and the moral fiber of this nation will continue to deteriorate, and at one point in our history, it will be gone. I hope I'm not alive to see that happen. So, I wanted to just let you know that it doesn't take courage to support a bill that deals with the sanctity of life or this particular bill, when we stand up for people's rights to express their religious beliefs. It takes just, you know, a love of people to be able to do that. And I think that at this point you have shown great wisdom, Senator, I appreciate your demeanor, your approach, you know, to addressing an issue as important as this here, this session, so I support you fully. Thank you, Mr. President.
President: Thank you, Senator Lucio. Senator Perry, you're recognized on a motion on final passage, and you have the floor to speak.

Senator Perry: Thank you, Mr. President. Members, Committee Substitute Senate Bill 17 is everything I expected it to be and rightfully so, as far as debate goes. First of all, to be clear for the record, it does not encourage, nor does it invoke, nor can it, all of the protections that currently exist in our civil rights, and in the number of years that we've had in this country still exist. Any violation of those under SB 17 going forward would still be subject to the punishment and the penalties that exist today. What CSSB 17 does is gives a voice to those of faith, that currently is fading, is being silenced through state-sponsored discrimination policies in laws that we make. It's an attack on the very fiber of where we used to be as a country, where we had a moral absolute standard that we seemed to have tossed to the wind, as secular world becomes more and more active in making sure that those voices are silenced. These are not my rules that I live by, these are rules that I believe a sovereign creator gave us for the betterment of society, and the further we get between us and those rules, the more we as a society suffer. And we can see as a country where we started moving apart from those, and I will never, ever excuse the abuse in the name of religion from history or going forward. Nobody on this floor will. If I could remove evil from humanity with a law today, we'd all make that and go home and call it good, but that's always going to be a part of our discussion in anything we deal with. But to remove one of those voices that seeks to be good, truthful, honest, balanced, and based on a moral standard granted by our sovereign creator that never changes, to silence that voice, we will not recognize this country for what we used to know it as and, nor will we be able to live in it. Committee Substitute Senate Bill 17 protects the people in this country to have a livelihood that possibly could be state sponsored. You know we can have a disagreement whether we should have all these licenses to begin with, but when we do, we should not intimidate, coerce, forbid, silence, or prevent people from living their faith, and that's what Committee Substitute Senate Bill 17 does.
