REMARKS ORDERED PRINTED

On motion of Senator Lucio and by unanimous consent, the remarks by Senators Zaffirini and Huffman regarding Floor Amendment No. 1 to CSSB 38 were ordered reduced to writing and printed in the Senate Journal as follows:

Senator Huffman: Thank you, Mr. President. Thank you, Senator Zaffirini, for this very important bill and for being a champion of this issue. It was, been delightful to work with you on this, so thank you for letting me participate in this and, and assist where I could. As you and I have discussed, it's important for this bill that we get it right when it comes to how we're going to define hazing and work on those who hurt some of our college kids. Members, this amendment tightens the current statutory definition of hazing and removes some language from the committee substitute. I will note that the statutory definition of hazing has not been updated since it was first put into statute in 1995. What this amendment seeks to do is clean up some of this long term, time statutory language to make the prosecution of this crime more effective. Actually the, the prosecutions of hazing have proven to be extremely rare. In fact, according to county and district prosecutors, what are most common are prosecutions on assaultive offenses and maybe some alcohol-related incidents, but it's been very difficult for the prosecutors to actually proceed on the way that the, the statute has been crafted. As a reminder, in the hazing statute, in order to prosecute a hazing offense a prosecutor must prove that the act is intentional, knowing, or reckless, and it's got to be committed by one person or a group, but it must be directed against a student at an educational institution, must endanger the mental or physical health or safety of the student, and that endangerment must be for the purpose of pledging, being initiated to, affiliated with holding office in, or maintaining membership in an organization. So, the prosecutors have to prove these elements and now, under the way that we are amending this, they'd also have to prove, then, one of the listed elements which are either going to be physical brutality, some of these very risky behaviors like sleep deprivation, exposure to the element, but they have to subject the student to an unreasonable risk of harm or that adversely affects the mental or physical health or safety of the student. And then, very importantly, and I think it’s one of the most important aspects of the bill, is that Senator Zaffirini is adding the coercion of, forcing a person or student to consume an alcoholic beverage, liquor, or drug. That is some of the testimony that we’ve heard in committee over the years, and we have heard this for several sessions. And it’s heartbreaking to hear from these parents who come, and then, what’s so sad to me is that we’re two years later still trying to do it. And then, there’s always another set of parents, isn’t there, Senator Zaffirini, whose child has died in that two-year period? And that’s what’s so heartbreaking to me. And I realize that we’re not going to, we’re not going to stop all behavior. We, we realize that, and I know you do as well. And I’ve heard you in your layout in committee say, you know, we’re not going to stop college kids from drinking, we’re not going to, you know, the fraternities and the sororities are going to have their fun and do what needs to do, they’re going to, what they want to do to a certain extent, but there must be some deterrents and there must be some consequences for engaging in this behavior that’s causing serious injury and death to some of our students. And I know that we discussed this, and we heard the testimony, and I know you’ve agreed to take out, and this amendment takes out the portion about removing a phone from an individual. And you and I’ve discussed this, and I know how strongly you felt about that, and I don’t disagree. It just, I thought it was going to be very difficult to prove in it. So, I would hope, and I hope the universities are listening, that that is something that they look at through their policies and so forth, about this idea of removing a person’s ability to communicate with others as part of the activity. So, would you agree with me that that’s something that the universities should talk about?

Senator Zaffirini: Certainly, Senator Huffman. And I thank you for your sharing your experience and your leadership and your insight, not only as Chair of the State Affairs Committee, but especially as a former prosecutor and a former judge, because we certainly have benefit from it in improving this bill. I agree with your perspective that we should differentiate between what is criminal and what is simply wrong. To begin with, by reducing the scope of what we define as criminal hazing to specific conduct such as coercing students to drink alcoholic beverages, your amendment certainly clarifies the kind of hazing we are prohibiting, specific behaviors. Your amendment also removes the prohibition of confiscating personal communication devices, but we are expressing our strong legislative intent that institutions include that prohibition in their anti-hazing policies. This is important especially in light of the moving testimony we heard. The father of a student who died after being hazed told us how his son could have used his cell phone to document or to report hazing, to call for a ride out of an abusive situation, or even as a lifeline. Had he had that cell phone he might be alive today. Equally important, your amendment is consistent with our commitment to promote a culture of accountability, transparency, trust, and safety and to do our best so that no more students will die needlessly. Thank you, Senator Huffman, your amendment is acceptable.

REMARKS ORDERED PRINTED

On motion of Senator West and by unanimous consent, the remarks between Senators Menéndez and Taylor and Senators West and Taylor regarding SB 2432 were ordered reduced to writing and printed in the Senate Journal as follows:

Senator Menéndez: I just have a question, Chairman Taylor. My concern, my only concern is, well, and I think you're, I know you're not trying to create any kind of school-to-jail pipeline, I know that. But the question that I have a concern about is, is there, is there any way to sort of, do you take into account students with disabilities in this bill where maybe there's a lack of understanding or there is a, I'm just curious?

Senator Taylor: Yes, if I could, the Education Code already requires the campus behavior coordinator to consider mitigating factors including self-defense, intent, the student's disciplinary history, and any disability of the student—

Senator Menéndez: Okay.

Senator Taylor: —is already included in current code.

Senator Menéndez: Okay. So, will there be any training or guidance? I, I mean I want our, all teachers to feel safe in the classroom. I just don't want us to pass some policy or a law that makes it easier for, say, someone to take a, let's say a, a difficult student or a troubled student that's maybe just not a, he's a discipline issue but not someone that maybe should be thrown out of the classroom.

Senator Taylor: Well, and you may already be aware, but the, the schools have a, a campus behavior coordinator that's in charge of doing these types of things, that's who the teachers refer them to so, I would, I would hope that the campus coordinator would know how to handle these situations in that regard.

Senator Menéndez: Alright, so you've already taken into account these concerns that I've got, that I, I don't want to create anything that we make it easier for someone to be targeted for whatever reason, to be, you know, thrown out of the school.

Senator Taylor: Yeah, you're correct, and I won't take credit for having done that, because it was already in current code, which is why that the word mandatory was kind of a little bit out of line, because it was already in code that it wasn't mandatory, so that's why we had that word removed from the caption. It does allow leeway for districts to take all those things into account before they do this.

Senator Menéndez: Appreciate your looking into that and, and taking all these considerations into account. Just want to make sure we do everything we can to a, you know, I understand some students can be a little more difficult than others.

Senator Taylor: Sure.

Senator Menéndez: But maybe they don't, we don't, it would be better to have them in a school than, than not have them in school at all.

Senator Taylor: Sure, and I appreciate your concern, Senator Menéndez.

Senator Menéndez: Thank you, Chairman Taylor. Thank you, Mr. President.

Presiding Officer: Thank you, Senator. For what purpose does the Senator from Dallas County rise?
Senator West: Question of the author.

Presiding Officer: Do you yield?

Senator Taylor: I yield.

Presiding Officer: Senator, you are recognized.

Senator West: Thank you very much, Senator Taylor. Here to before, in the past we've had problems with kids in, like, the first, second, and third grade, and when Senator Menéndez was asking you questions, that kind of gave me pause for concern about this being applied to first, second, and third graders. Would this bill be applicable to those students?

Senator Taylor: Well, once again, this is just adding an option for threats. When you're talking about first, second, and third grades, obviously, there's room for a lot of latitude, common sense, is that a credible threat, those types of things. This is, once again, we're not making this mandatory, it's just allowing that the idea of a threat. Now, you may very well have a third grader who, who can make a legitimate threat, and they'll go through that process and decide that that child probably needs to be taken out of that particular classroom. Yeah, these are little kids, that's what I'm saying, so--

Senator West: That's what I'm saying also.

Senator Taylor: –but depending on what the threat is, I mean, there may be some, and I, I don't want to say, you know, we don't want to pass laws that try to cover every possible situation. All we're doing here is adding the option to consider that for threats. They haven't actually inflicted harm, but if they're making such a threat on a family, you know, the teacher's family or something. Once again, with a first, second, and third grade, that's getting on out there, but you may very well have some child, I don't, I don't know, that might happen.

Senator West: Well, see, what has happened in the past is that we've seen a disproportionate number of minority kids kicked out of classrooms in the first, second, and third grade. And frankly, I should have raised this in committee and I didn't. And that gives me cause for concern. And then, I thought that some laws were passed either this session, last session, or session before last that kind of shuttered that down in terms of taking kids in, in those grades and putting them in alternative education programs. And so, this is what I'd ask you, because I've, I've, and I've known you a long time and know where your heart is. What, what I'd ask you to do is allow me to continue to work with you on that issue as the bill goes through the legislative process because, just like Senator Menéndez, I've got some issues that, dealing with from school-to-prison pipelines.

Senator Taylor: Sure, and like you say, I understand that concern, and I'm more than happy to work with you. You know, it is hard to imagine, but we have had some incidents where some very young kids can make some very credible threats, and all this is doing is allowing the option to do the alternative education placement in those, I would imagine pretty rare, circumstance for first through third grade. And frankly, you know, where do you draw the line? Is it no longer about fourth grade, fifth grade? So, I, I, I appreciate your concern, be happy to talk with you about it, see what we could do on that particular concern.

Senator West: And I think that we probably should get some data, from, we probably need to get some data from the Texas Education Agency on that issue, because I'm pretty certain that it's in the PEIM System.

Senator Taylor: So, are you asking we hold this up at, at third, before we do third reading?

Senator West: No, you know, I know, I know that you will work with me along the way on this.

Senator Taylor: Sure.

Senator West: And so, I, and I, it's getting late in the day, late in the process, and I know the bill needs to get over to the House, but I want to work with you on it to make certain that we address that concern as best possible.

Senator Taylor: Absolutely, Senator West, thank you.

Senator West: Thank you.

WHEREAS, Born in Lawton, Oklahoma, on April 4, 1958, John Wesley Jones II moved to Texas with his family during his youth and distinguished himself as a track star and an All-State running back for the Lampasas High School Badgers; by the age of 18, he was sprinting world-class times, and he gained widespread recognition with his legendary performance at the 1976 state track meet; after winning the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, he closed a gap of more than 40 yards during the anchor leg of the mile relay, passing the entire field and inspiring the crowd to swarm the track in excitement; the relay victory clinched the team championship for Lampasas High, and Mr. Jones would later reflect on that accomplishment as one of the most exciting experiences of his life; and

WHEREAS, Later that summer, Mr. Jones competed in the 1976 Summer Olympics in Montreal, becoming the youngest athlete from Texas to ever earn a berth on the United States track and field team; he won an Olympic gold medal as a member of the 4x100 relay team, which set a world record with a time of 38.33 seconds, and he also competed in the 100-yard dash, finishing sixth; and

WHEREAS, A highly touted NFL prospect, this skilled athlete was drafted by the New York Jets in 1980 and signed the first contract worth more than a million dollars in league history; his pro career spanned eight years, but injuries limited his performance and playing time with the Jets, and he retired in 1987 after brief stints with the San Francisco 49ers and Dallas Cowboys; and

WHEREAS, In recent decades, Mr. Jones dedicated himself to educating youth on the dangers of drugs and alcohol; he also became involved in the Lay Witnesses for Christ sports ministry, and he was a
