The Senate met at 5:10 p.m. pursuant to adjournment and was called to order by Senator Perry.

The roll was called and the following Senators were present: Alvarado, Bettencourt, Birdwell, Buckingham, Campbell, Creighton, Fallon, Flores, Hall, Hancock, Hinojosa, Huffman, Hughes, Johnson, Kolkhorst, Lucio, Menéndez, Miles, Nelson, Nichols, Paxton, Perry, Powell, Rodríguez, Schwertner, Seliger, Taylor, Watson, West, Whitmire, Zaffirini.

The Presiding Officer announced that a quorum of the Senate was present.

Senator Hancock offered the invocation as follows:

Dearest heavenly Father, we thank You for a new day and the miracle that it brings that we take for granted, the sun rising, the sun setting, and just the miracles that we forget to acknowledge You in. So, we do that now. We also pray for Your wisdom, for Your guidance, for Your direction, and for all those that we serve. In Your name I pray. Amen.

Senator Whitmire moved that the reading of the Journal of the proceedings of the previous day be dispensed with and the Journal be approved as printed.

The motion prevailed without objection.

The Presiding Officer at 5:11 p.m. announced the conclusion of morning call.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE
SENATE BILL 2 ON THIRD READING

Senator Bettencourt moved to suspend the regular order of business to take up for consideration CSSB 2 at this time on its third reading and final passage:

CSSB 2, Relating to ad valorem taxation.

The motion prevailed by the following vote: Yeas 19, Nays 12.

Yeas: Bettencourt, Birdwell, Buckingham, Campbell, Creighton, Fallon, Flores, Hall, Hancock, Huffman, Hughes, Kolkhorst, Nelson, Nichols, Paxton, Perry, Schwertner, Seliger, Taylor.

The bill was read third time.

Senator Menéndez offered the following amendment to the bill:

Floor Amendment No. 1 on Third Reading

Amend Second Reading Floor Amendment No. 1 to CSSB 2 as follows:

(1) In the recital to SECTION 25 of the bill (page 20, line 7), strike "Subdivision (19)" and substitute "Subdivisions (10-a), (10-b), and (19)".

(2) In SECTION 25 of the bill, in amended Section 26.012, Tax Code, between Subdivisions (10) and (19) of that section (page 20, between lines 12 and 13), insert the following:

(10-a) "Government consumption expenditures index" means the state and local government consumption expenditures index as calculated by the Bureau of Economic Analysis of the United States Department of Commerce.
"Inflation rate" means the amount, expressed in decimal form rounded to the nearest hundredth, computed by determining the average annual percentage change in the government consumption expenditures index over the preceding four-year period. If the amount is a negative number, the amount is considered to be zero.

(3) In the recital to SECTION 27 of the bill (page 20, line 30), strike "Subsections (c-1)" and substitute "Subsections (b-1), (c-1)".

(4) In SECTION 27 of the bill, in amended Section 26.04, Tax Code, between Subsections (b) and (c) of that section (page 21, between lines 13 and 14), insert the following:

(b-1) By January 1 or as soon thereafter as practicable, the comptroller shall determine the inflation rate for the current year and publish the rate in the Texas Register.

(5) In SECTION 27 of the bill, strike added Section 26.04(c)(2)(B), Tax Code (page 22, lines 4-7), and substitute the following:

(B) for a taxing unit other than a small taxing unit:

\text{VOTER-APPROVED TAX RATE} = \left[ \text{NO-NEW-REVENUE MAINTENANCE AND OPERATIONS RATE} \times (1.035 + \text{INFLATION RATE}) \right] + \text{CURRENT DEBT RATE}

(6) In SECTION 27 of the bill, in amended Section 26.041(a), Tax Code (page 14, lines 36-39), strike the formula for the voter-approved tax rate for a taxing unit other than a small taxing unit and substitute the following:

VOTER-APPROVED TAX RATE FOR TAXING UNIT OTHER THAN SMALL TAXING UNIT = \left[ \text{NO-NEW-REVENUE MAINTENANCE AND OPERATIONS RATE} \times (1.035 + \text{INFLATION RATE}) \right] + \text{CURRENT DEBT RATE} - \text{SALES TAX GAIN RATE}

(7) In SECTION 28 of the bill, in amended Section 26.041(b), Tax Code (page 31, lines 1-5), strike the formula for the voter-approved tax rate for a taxing unit other than a small taxing unit and substitute the following:

VOTER-APPROVED TAX RATE FOR TAXING UNIT OTHER THAN SMALL TAXING UNIT = \left[ \frac{(\text{LAST YEAR'S MAINTENANCE AND OPERATIONS EXPENSE} \times (1.035 + \text{INFLATION RATE}))}{(\text{CURRENT TOTAL VALUE} - \text{NEW PROPERTY VALUE})} \right] + (\text{CURRENT DEBT RATE} - \text{SALES TAX REVENUE RATE})

(8) In SECTION 28 of the bill, in amended Section 26.041(c), Tax Code (page 31, lines 29-31, page 32, line 1), strike the formula for the voter-approved tax rate for a taxing unit other than a small taxing unit and substitute the following:

VOTER-APPROVED TAX RATE FOR TAXING UNIT OTHER THAN SMALL TAXING UNIT = \left[ \frac{(\text{LAST YEAR'S MAINTENANCE AND OPERATIONS EXPENSE} \times (1.035 + \text{INFLATION RATE}))}{(\text{CURRENT TOTAL VALUE} - \text{NEW PROPERTY VALUE})} \right] + \text{CURRENT DEBT RATE}

(9) In SECTION 34 of the bill, in added Section 26.0446(a), Tax Code (page 37, line 20), strike "3.5 percent" and substitute "the sum of 3.5 percent and the inflation rate".
(10) In SECTION 42 of the bill, in added Section 26.08(b-1), Tax Code (page 59, line 29), strike "3.5 percent" and substitute "the sum of 3.5 percent and the inflation rate".

(11) In SECTION 42 of the bill, in amended Section 26.08(n), Tax Code (page 62, line 6), strike "1.025" and substitute "the sum of 1.035 and the inflation rate".

(12) In SECTION 79 of the bill, in amended Section 49.236(a)(3), Water Code (page 98, line 24), strike "3.5 [eight] percent" and substitute "the sum of 3.5 [eight] percent and the inflation rate".

(13) In SECTION 79 of the bill, in amended Section 49.236(d), Water Code (page 99, line 21), strike "1.035 [1.08] times" and substitute "[1.08 times]".

(14) In SECTION 79 of the bill, in amended Section 49.236(d), Water Code (page 99, line 26), between "older" and the period, insert ", multiplied by the sum of 1.035 and the inflation rate, as defined by Section 26.012, Tax Code".

The amendment to CSSB 2 was read.

Senator Menéndez withdrew Floor Amendment No. 1 on Third Reading.

Senator Menéndez offered the following amendment to the bill:

Floor Amendment No. 2 on Third Reading

Amend Second Reading Floor Amendment No. 1 by Bettencourt to CSSB 2 as follows:

(1) In SECTION 3 of the amendment, in added Section 5.01(b), Tax Code (page 2, lines 5 and 6), strike Subdivision (1) of the subsection and substitute the following:

(1) representatives of property tax payers, tax assessor collectors, school districts, and appraisal districts; and

(2) In SECTION 3 of the amendment, in added Section 5.01, Tax Code (page 2, lines 15 and 16), strike added Subsection (e).

The amendment to CSSB 2 was read and was adopted by a viva voce vote.

All Members are deemed to have voted "Yea" on the adoption of Floor Amendment No. 2 on Third Reading.

CSSB 2 as again amended was finally passed by the following vote: Yeas 18, Nays 12, Present-not voting 1.

Yeas: Bettencourt, Birdwell, Buckingham, Campbell, Creighton, Fallon, Flores, Hall, Hancock, Huffman, Hughes, Kolkhorst, Nelson, Nichols, Paxton, Perry, Schwertner, Taylor.

Present-not voting: Lucio.

REASON FOR VOTE

Senator Rodríguez submitted the following reason for vote on CSSB 2:

I appreciate the effort to address rising property taxes, but S.B. 2 falls far short of the mark. However, there are a number of significant reasons that S.B. 2 is not the right approach for the state of Texas.
First, it does not account for the unfunded mandates the state places on local governments. From court costs to emergency rooms and prescriptions for prisoners, local governments spend millions to comply with these unfunded state mandates. For example, counties provide the lion’s share of the financial support for courts and other critical components of the judicial system. While the state pays the base salaries of district court judges, counties pay for all personnel and other operating costs as well as providing the actual courtrooms and courthouses. Counties also fund county clerk offices and district clerk offices. Prosecutorial offices (i.e., county attorneys, district attorneys, and criminal district attorneys) receive a large part of their funding from counties, as do lawyers appointed to represent indigent defendants in criminal cases and those appointed to represent children and indigent parents in certain Child Protective Services cases.

All of these expenses add up. Extrapolating from the expenditures reported by 84 counties shows that statewide expenditures started out at over $1.2 billion dollars, reaching almost $1.6 billion for FY 2016. Total estimated expenditures for all 254 counties increased by 20.9 percent from FY 2011 to FY 2016. In El Paso, the heart of my Senate District, 60 percent, or $206 million, of El Paso County’s budget goes toward unfunded state mandates. I offered an amendment to exempt just one part of that, court costs, since that is a burden the state forces local communities to shoulder, but it was not accepted.

Second, without a doubt, people want local governments to provide basic services. While Texans may be split on the question of revenue caps, they are overwhelmingly in support of local government having the ability to meet basic needs. According to polling by Mike Baselice, a Republican pollster, "47 percent of voters oppose a statewide law that limits local governments from increasing property taxes by more than 2.5 percent a year. Opposition increases to 57 percent in East and West Texas communities, 53 percent for rural males, and 52 percent for rural GOP voters and GOP voters 55 and over." Further, when the question is accurately framed as a matter of local priority setting: "78 percent of Texas voters (out of 400 respondents) believe local governments should have the ability to set local tax rates to support police, fire, and paramedics; for roads, parks and libraries 79 percent agreed; and for public schools, 75 percent agreed." The opposition to hindering local governments the ability to meet these needs is widespread and across the diverse communities of Texas.

Third, it is not the appropriate role for the state to set these revenue caps. If there is a great desire by communities to limit themselves, then let’s give them the authority to make that decision. Local voters should be given the opportunity to opt in. As stated by the Center for Public Policy Priorities, "When we vote locally for city, county, and other local officials, we are choosing by extension how much we want to pay for schools, public safety and other services we value. If we disagree with the decisions of our local elected officials, we can choose to vote them out in the next election. This legislation suggests that state leaders don’t trust Texans to make the best decisions for our own communities."

Fourth, the bill makes no provisions for circumstances that are unique to communities, with the exception of a natural disaster. As we have seen recently, there are other events outside of a community’s control that have a great impact on a local economy. For example, El Paso’s economy is heavily dependent on border trade and commerce. El Paso and other border communities came close to the brink of disaster with the President's threat to close the borders. The daily average of pedestrian crossings into El Paso in 2018 was 19,787. The daily average for vehicle crossings was 35,819. The daily average of cargo crossing was 2,594. The value of estimated trade coming into El Paso from the ports of entry is $212 million per day. The estimated loss in sales tax revenue from a shutdown, specifically for El Paso, is $600,000 a week or $2.4 million a month. Retail jobs are the third largest employment sector and an extended closure of the bridge could result in the closure of businesses and the loss of jobs. Even without a full closure, we already are seeing long bridge lines due to reassignment of bridge inspectors. This in spite of the fact that the City pays the federal government for some of the inspectors' hours. These delays negatively impact not only the local and regional economy, it hurts the state and national economy as well. My office already has heard stories about companies reconsidering their supply lines because of the uncertainty over border policy. This hurts everyone, and specifically to S.B. 2, has potential to hurt the City's finances. That should be taken into consideration.

Fifth, the term used to describe this new rollback rate, "voter-approved," is misleading. Voters have not approved this rate. In fact, it is a state-mandated rate until an actual election is held. Once an election is held, whatever rate the voters approve would fairly be called "voter-approved." It is important to label things accurately; words matter.

Finally, this approach lacks equity and is regressive, hurting low-income Texans and low-property wealth communities the most. Studies show that revenue caps result in higher fees, fines, and other revenue generators that impact middle- and low-income the most. Fitch, the bond rating company, notes that once capped by the state on property taxes, local units of government will look for other ways to raise revenues. Fitch states, "[m]ost local governments retain the ability to increase non-tax revenues (e.g. fines, service charges and fees), which could offset the impact of a lower rollback rate as it relates to revenue-raising ability."

As happens with unfunded mandates, the state is passing costs down to local governments, not truly containing them. Numerous case studies, from places like Massachusetts and even here in Texas, indicate this is the future. A University of Houston Hobby Center report from February, 2019, cites various studies that state: "The nature of property tax caps in most localities tends to make the collected revenue fall well short of the necessary amount to cover existing costs and the ever-rising price of delivering services (i.e., wage increases, inflation, etc.) (Lyons and Lav 2007). In this case, policymakers usually look for alternative approaches of revenue generation, such as increasing the prices for services in the form of significantly higher fees, higher fines, and raising sales tax (Lav and Leachman 2018). . . . The increased fees are particularly onerous for lower-income communities, which see little benefit from the reduction of property taxes but are impacted by more expensive or less generous services (Newman and O’Rourke 2011).

Unfortunately, Texas, with its reliance on sales and property taxes, is a high tax state for people with low incomes. According to the Institute for Taxation and Economic Policy, "the lowest-income 20 percent of Texans contribute 13 percent of their income in state and local taxes – considerably more than any other income group in the state. For low-income families, Texas is far from being a low tax state; in fact, it is tied with Arizona as the sixth highest-tax state in the country for low-income families."

I agree that we need property tax reform, but we need to make sure the reform reaches property taxpayers without also imposing new burdens on working Texans. Shifting the burden and tying the hands of local communities while failing to provide real relief is simply not good public policy. S.B. 2 will not provide true property tax relief, which can only be achieved when the state fulfills its obligations to adequately fund public schools. Consequently, I cast my vote against S.B. 2.

RODRÍGUEZ
