Rabbi Kelly Levy, Congregation Beth Israel, Austin, offered the invocation as follows:

M'kor HaChayim, source of life, we ask for Your blessing over these Texas state leaders as they continue to shape the lives of millions of people who call Texas home. As these elected officials gather today to determine the course of this great state, we are reminded of Rabbi Tarfon's words from hundreds of years ago, You are not obligated to complete the work, but neither are you free to abandon it. God, we ask You to help these legislators persist in their work to protect the vulnerable amongst us, most especially those suffering from financial hardship, physical and emotional illness, and those burdened by the various challenges presented in their lives. May You guide these leaders to care for all of humanity as we remember that we were each created B'tzelem Elohim, in the image of God. And may the compassion You have for all of us be reflected in our leaders today and always. Together, may we work to create a state filled with love for one another, a love that's bigger than anywhere else, because even love is bigger in Texas. Amen.

Senator Whitmire moved that the reading of the Journal of the proceedings of the previous day be dispensed with and the Journal be approved as printed.

REMARKS ORDERED PRINTED

On motion of Senator Whitmire and by unanimous consent, the remarks by Senator Miles regarding Jeanne Beulah Franklin Samuels were ordered reduced to writing and printed in the Senate Journal as follows:

Thank you, Mr. President. Members, Jeanne Samuels was a Houston community pillar. She was publisher and editor and owner of the Jewish Herald-Voice. She passed away on May 12th. Ms. Samuels was born in Casper, Wyoming, on December 26th, 1923. Her family moved to Texas when she was less than a year old and she grew up in Houston. While attending the University of Houston, she met another student by the name of Joe Samuels, who noticed her at the bus stop on Scott and Wheeler. Their love quickly flourished and they married in 1943, just as Joe received his active duty orders to serve in World War II. When he returned to Houston, they began their family, traveled the world, and cherished their lives together. In 1973 they purchased the Jewish Herald-Voice, becoming just the third owners of the paper. Their lives were never the same again, with late night deadlines, attending and reporting on events, and editorializing issues that matter to the Jewish community right there in Houston, in our great State of Texas, the United States, and the world. The Jewish Herald-Voice is a well respected publication that has been serving the community for more than 100 years, to more than 40,000 households. The growth and success of the publication is due to the Samuels family's dedication. Every generation of Jeanne's family represented the paper, with her daughter, her grandson, and even her great-grandchildren, all working for the Jewish Herald-Voice. Jeanne joins her beloved Joe, whom she lost in 2011. She is survived by her loving family, one sister, three children, 11 grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren. Members, I simply ask that when we adjourn today, we adjourn in the memory of Jeanne Samuels of the Jewish Herald-Voice. Thank you, Mr. President, and thank you, Members.
